Art from the Front Lines

Dear friends, you have a unique opportunity to buy priceless paintings painted on the front lines positions by the artist, writer, director Valery Puzik.

All money from the sale of these paintings will go towards the purchase of an SUV for the Valery's unit fighting to defend Ukraine's freedom.

For details of the auction and the author, follow the link:

<https://uccacharlotte.org/merch/>

In January 2015, Valery Puzik enlisted as a volunteer and took part in combat operations in Donbas as part of the battalion of the Ukrainian Volunteer Corps. Before the full-scale Russian invasion on February 24, 2022, he worked as a screenwriter but is now serving in Ukrainian Armed Forces.

Combining service with art, he paints on the lids of ammunition boxes. His paintings and art have been presented in various exhibitions in Ukraine and abroad such as "Incubation Period", "Echoes", "Ghost Zone", and "My Army. To see with the heart." His work is held in private collectors in Canada, Great Britain, the USA, Ukraine, Sweden, and others. Laureate of literary competitions, his texts were highlighted by Ukrainian art agencies "Smoloskip" and "Granoslov", he won a literary prize named after Oles Ulyanenko.
